Winter Precautions

Winter can be lots a of fun, but unfortunately, there are some associated potential dangers.

Here are some facts and important tips about keeping children safe during the winter months:

- Children can easily succumb to frost bite, so during cold weather, make sure that your child's clothing, shoes, boots and gloves stay dry. If either of these items gets wet, change your child in to dry ones.
- Make sure your children do not play in snow that is piled up for clearing on the street or sidewalks. Tragically children have been killed by snow cleaning equipment while playing in these banks.
- Most of winter sport injuries involve twists, sprains and strains. These injuries can be protected for example, during skiing and skating, by getting your child good instructors, proper equipment and off course appropriate supervision.
- Frozen ponds or lakes make for great skating. Make sure however that the ice is thick enough to allow safe skating before you let your children walk onto or skate on such frozen surfaces.
- Fireplaces are fun, warm and cozy, but should be used safely; Always use a screen to prevent sparks from igniting items around the fireplace such as newspapers carpets, furniture and curtains. Only use the fireplace when you're at home and awake.
